PRESS RELEASE -- FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BANCO DE SANGRE DE SERVICIOS MUTUOS-- PUERTO RICO SELECTS IDM'S SELECT SERIES AND PRELUDE SYSTEMS

Rosemont, Illinois, June 8, 2006: Banco de Sangre de Servicios Mutuos in San Juan, Puerto Rico has signed an agreement with Information Data Management, Inc. (IDM), a leader in medical software development and support, for its IDM Select Series Blood Center Information System and Prelude* Donor Room Management System.

"We are very excited in the choice we made of selecting IDM as our software provider for our blood bank's automation process. IDM's Prelude series proves to be the best in the industry by providing a user friendly environment and multi-lingual features that allows for a more flexible donor screening process. Also the dedication to quality and service expressed by IDM's staff has been of the utmost importance in making our decision." states Jose O. Alsina, Director of Operations for Banco de Sangre de Servicios Mutuos.

"IDM is very pleased that Banco de Sangre de Servicios Mutuos has chosen our software systems to further advance the automation of their blood donation process. We are honored to be a part of their continued commitment to increase the safety of their blood supply and the efficiency of their operations," states Susan McBride, Vice President, Business Development for IDM, "Banco de Sangre will be the first IDM customer to utilize Prelude's Multi-lingual feature for health history questionnaires by offering Spanish as the primary choice and English as a secondary."

IDM Select Series is an integrated blood center information system for donor and product inventory management. It is designed to give blood centers the optimum combination of functionality and flexibility, to accommodate and anticipate increasingly stringent regulatory requirements and to deliver continued return on the blood center's information system investment.

Prelude is designed to automate and manage the blood donation process. It contains a Self-Administered Donor Interview which guides the donor through the health history process. It supports a paperless blood donation process by performing a donor eligibility check; the recording of health history, examination & phlebotomy results; and the capture of donor's photograph and digitized signature. In addition, Prelude gives remote mobile blood drives the same functions as fixed sites and synchronizes information with the main server.
